Markets Weak and Declining-Bears Go Into Cover When the Secretary of the Trensury Arrives on the Scene-

Apprehensions on the Street. NEW YORK, September 18 .- The stock market to-day was again weak and declining, with further liquidation of small long accounts, but reer short selling. The general expectation hat there was to be a further increase in the deficit shown by the banks from the require-ments of the 25 per cent rule gave the bearish traders an opportunity to continue their ham-mering operations, especially as London was found to be a seller of its specialties at the opening. First prices were generally but slightly changed from those of last evening, but the pressure was brought to bear first upon North American, which has since its appearsignity changed from those of last evening, but the pressure was brought to bear first upon North American, which has since its appearance on the list been a drawing bear card, and it retired rapidly from 43 to 41, and afterward to 40%. Chicago Gas followed with a drop from 45% to 42%, and then the Grangers and Sugar Reineries yielded from I per cent to 11%.

At about Il o'clock it became known that the Secretary of the Treasury was in town, and would hold a conference with some of the leading bankers with a view to coming to some final solution of the problem of how to relieve the monetary stringency, and the bears went into cover on the intelligence, with the result of rallying Chicago Gas 1% and the rest of the list generally small fractions. The trading in the last half hour presented no new features, and the market finally closed quiet and barely steady, generally at small fractions better than the lowest prices of the day.

The final changes are almost invariably fractional losses, and North American is down 2 per cent. Chicago Gas 13% and Northern Pacific preferred 13%.

The Post says: "As to the causes of the weakness in the stock market there is but the one most important explanation, viz.: that it is apprehension of what may be rather than any realization of anything that is, Money would be tight anyhow, even if the new tariff were not to go into effect, because there has been an unusual demand for money all over the country for earlier moving of crops and for the prosecution of larger industrial enterprises than usual, and especially also for the speculation in grain, which ever since the bad news about the crops, has been absorbing speculative capital especially in the West. But the immediate thing which in this situation has the most effect to unsettle confidence and makes all the money lenders refuse to lend except they have nunsual inducements, is the apprehension that there is going to be a crisis in connection with the withdrawal of goods from United States bonded warehouses in order to escape

THE WINGS OF LOVE. to have more guests than accommodations.' I know it. The Seamen's Friend Society is in A Lesson on the Strength and Goodness of God as Shown by THE BEAUTIFUL STORY OF RUTH. Grace and Help Near at Hand at All Times for All Who TRUST WHOLLY IN THE ALMIGHTY ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. BROOKLYN, September 14 .- The subject of the discourse by Dr. Talmage to-day is Wings of Love," the famous preacher taking for his text the words: "The Lord God of Israel, under whose wings thou art come to trust."-Ruth ii., 12. Scene-An Oriental harvest field. Grain standing. Grain in swaths. Grain in sheaves. At the side of the field, a white tent in which o take the nooning, jars of vinegar or of sour wine to quench the thirst of the hot working ple. Swarthy men striking their sickles to the rustling barley. Others twisting the bands for the sheaves, putting one end of the band under the arm, and with the free arm and oot collecting the sheaf. Sunburned women nicking up the stray straws and bringing them to the binders. Beaz, a fine-looking Oriental, gray-bearded and bright-faced, the owner of the field, looking on, and estimating the value of the grain and calculating so many ephans to the and, with his large, sympathetic heart, stying the overtasked workmen and the en, with white faces enough to faint, in the being kind to an aged woman. d God sets behind a woman's face the lamp courage, and faith, and self-sacrifice, there of courage, and faith, and self-sacrifice, there ames out a glory independent of features, the is to be the ancestress of Jesus Christ. Boaz, the owner of the field, as soon as he understands that it is Ruth, accosts her with a dessing: "A full roward be given there of the level God of Israel, under whose wings thour toome to trust." Christoompares himself to hen gathering the chickens under her wings, in Deuteronomy, God is represented as an eagle tirring up her nest. In a great many places in he Psalus, thavid makes ornithological allusions; while my text mentions the wings of cod, under which a poor, weary soul had come of trust.

I ask your attention, therefore, while, taking the suggestion of my text, I speak to you in all implicity and love of the wings of the First, I remark that they were swift wines under which Rath had come to trust. There is nothing in all the handiwork of God more curious than a bird's wing. You have been suroriseil, sometimes, to see how far it could fly vith one stroke of the wing; and, when it has add in prospect, or when it is affrighted, the pulsations of the bird's wing are unimaginable for velocity. The English lords used to pride dictinstives on the speed of their falcons. These side, when tamed, had in them the dart of aphthing. How swift were the carrier pigeons in the time of Anthony and at the siege of Jecusalem! Wonderful speed! A carrier pigeon has thrown up at Rouen and came down at Shent-80 miles off—in one hour. The carincident of the wing; and the condor's wing, are the wings of the Almighty.

GOD'S GENTLENESS.

I have only one more thought to present. The wings under which Ruth had come to trust were gentle wings. There is nothing softer than a feather. You have noticed when a bird returns from flight, how gently it stoops over the nest. The young birds are not afraid of having their lives trampled out by the mother bird: the old whippoorwill drops into its r? Longer than it takes God to swoop e rescue of His children.

The fact is that you cannot get away from the many crags between. Solomon four or five his. Who but Christ could have been quick mough to have helped Peter when the water en quark enough to help the Duke of Argyle en, in his dying moment, he cried: "Good when, in his dying moment, he cried: "Good heer! I could die like a Roman, but I mean to ie like a Christian. Come away, gentlemen, ie who goes first goes cleanest." I had a friend who stood by the rail-track at

I had a friend who stood by the rail-track at Carlisle, Pa., when the ammunition had given out at Anticiam; and he saw the train from Harrisburg, freighted with shot and shell, as it went thundering down toward the battlefield. He said that it stopped not for any crossing. They put down the brakes for no grade. They held up for no peril. The wheels were on fire with the speed as they dashed past. If the train did not copie up in time with the ammunition, it might as well not come at all. So, my friends, there are times in our lives when we must have help immediately or perisb. The grace at all. What you and I want is a God—now. Oh! is it not blessed to think that God is always in such quick pursuit of his dear children? When a sinner seeks pardon, or a baffled soul needs help, swifter than thrush's wing, swifter than flamingo's wing, swifter than eagle's wing, are the wings of the Almighty.

remark further, carrying out the idea of my ext, that the wings under which Ruth had ome to trust were very broad wings. There have been cagles shot on the Rocky Mountains ome to trust were very broad wings. There awe been eagles shot on the Bocky Mountains with wings that were seven feet from tip to up. When the king of the air sits on the crag, he wings are spread over all the eaglets in the vrie, and when the eagle starts from the rock he sindow is like the spreading of a storm loud. So the wings of God are broad wings, both had been under those wings in her inautile days; in the days of her happy girlhood a Moab; in the day when she gave her hand o Mathon, in her first marriage; in the day when see wept over his grave; in the day when is trudged out into the wilderness of poverty; a the days when she picked up the few straws I harley dropped by ancient custom in the

AID FOR THE DISCONSOLATE. Ohlyes, the wings of God are broad wings. They cover up all our wants, all our sorrows, all our sufferings. He puts one wing over our all our sufferings. He puts one wing over our crade, and he puts the other over our grave. Yes, my dear friend, it is not a desert in which we are placed: it is a nest. Sometimes it is a very hard nest, like that of the eagle, spread on the rock, with ragged moss and rough sticks, but still is a nest; and, although it may be very hard under us, over us are the wings of the Almighty. There sometimes comes a period in one's life when he feels forsaken. You said, "Everything is against me. The world is against use. The church is against me. No sympathy: no hope. Everybody that comes near me thrusts at me. I wonder if there is a God, anyhow?" Everything seems to be going stephod and at haphazard. There does not seem to be any hand on the helm. Job's health fails. David's Absalom gets to be a reprobate. Martha's brother dies. Abraham's Sarah goes mot the grave of Machpelah. "Woe worth the day in which I was born!" has said many a Christian. David seemed to scream out in his sorrow, as he said: "Is His mercy clean gone forever?" And will He be favorable no more? And hath He in anger shut up His tender mercies?" Job, with his throat swollen and lected until he could not even swallow the saliva that ran into his mouth, exclaims: "How long before Thou wilt depart from me, and leave me alone, that I may swallow down my spittle?" Have there never been times in your life when you envised from the depart from me, and radic, and he puts the other over our grave. the?" Have there never been times in your when you envied those who were buried? When you longed for the gravedigger to do his cork for you? Oh, the faithlessness of the uman heart! Gou's wings are broad, whether

Sometimes the mother-bird goes away from the nest, and it seems very strange that she should leave the callow young. She plunges her beak into the bark of the tree, and she drops into the grain field, and into the chaff at the barn door, and into the furrow of the plowboy. Meanwhile, the birds in the nest shiver, and compainin, and call, and wonder why the mother-bird does not come tack. Ah, she has gone for food. After a while there is a whirr of wings, and the mother-bird stands on the edge of the nest, and the little ones open their months, and the food is dropped in; and then the old bird spreads out her feathers, and all is peace. No, sometimes, God leaves us. He goes off to get food for our soul; and then He comes back after a while to the nest, and says, "Open thy month wide and I will fill it;" and He drops into it the sweet promises of His grace, and the leve of God is shed abroad, and we are under His wings—the broad wings of the Almighty. Sometimes the mother-bird goes away from

ECOM ENOUGH FOR ALL. Yes; they are very broad! There is room under those wings for the 1,600,000,000 of the race. You say: "Do not get the invitation too

I know it. The Seamen's Friend Society is inviting all the saliors. The Tract Society is inviting all the destitute. The Sabbath schools are inviting all the children. The Missionary Society is inviting all the heathen. The printing presses of the Bible societies are going night and day, doing nothing but printing favitations to this great Gospel banquet. And are you not afraid that there will be more guests than accommodations? No! All who have been invited will not half fill up the table of God's supply. There are chairs for more. There are cups for more. God ond with one feather of his wing cover up all those who have come: and when He spreads out both wings, they cover all the earth and all the heavens.
Ye israelites, who went through the Red Sea,
come under! Ye multitudes who have gone into glory for the last six thousand years, come under! Ye hundred and forty-four thousand,
and the thousands of thousands, come under!
Ye fiving cherubim and archangel, fold your pinions, and come under! And yet there is room! Ay! if God would have all the space under His wings occupied, He must make other worlds, and people them with other myriads,
and have other resurrection and juggment days; for broader than all space, broader than thought, wide as eternity, from the to tip, are the wings of the Almight! Only in under such days; for broader than all space, broader than thought, wide as eternity, from the to tip, are the wings of the Almighty! Oh! under such provision as that can you not rejoice? Come under, we wandering, ye wary, ye troubled, ye smaing, ye dying souls! Conseunder the wings of the Almighty. Whoseever will come, let him come. However ragged, however wee-begone, there is room enough under the wings—under the broad wings of the Almighty! Oh, what a gospel! se glorious, so magnificent in its provision! I love to preach it. It is my life to preach it.

TIRELESS WINGS. I remark, further, that the wings under which Ruth came to trust were strong wings. The strength of a bird's wing-of a seafowl's wing, for example-you might guess it from the fact that sometimes for five, six or seven wing. for example—you might guess it from the fact that sometimes for five, six or seven days it seems to fly without resting. There have been condors in the Andes that could overcome an ox or a stag. There have been eagles that have picked up children, and swung them to the top of the cliffs. The flap of an eagle's wing has death in it to everything it strikes. There are birds whose wings are packed with strength to fiv. to hit, to destroy.
So the wings of God are strong wings. Mighty to save. Mighty to destroy. I preach Him—
"the Lord, strong and mighty—the Lord, mighty in battle!" He flapped His wing, and the antediluvian world was gone. He flapped His wing and Habylon perished. He flapped His wing and Herculaneum was buried. He flapped His

But quicker than an eagle ever hurled from the crags a hawk or raven, will the Lord strike back our sins and our temptations, if they assault us when we are once seated on the eternal rock of His salvation. What a blessed thing it is to be defended by the strong wing of the Almighty! Stronger than the pelican's wing, stronger than the albatross' wing, stronger than the albatross' wing, stronger than the condor's wing, are the wings of the Almighty.

softer than a feather. You have noticed when a bird returns from flight, how gently it stoops over the nest. The young birds are not afraid of having their lives trampled out by the mother bird: the old whippoorwill drops into its nest of leaves, the oriole into its casket of bark, the humming-bird into its hammock of moss—gentle as the light. And so, says the Psalmist, He shall cover thee with His wing. Oh, the gentleness of God! But even that figure does not fully set it forth: for I have sometimes looked into the bird's nest and seen a dead bird—its life having been trampled out by the mother bird. But no one that ever came under the feathers of the Almighty was trodden on. Hessed nest! warm nest! Why will men stay out in the cold to be shot of tomotation and to be chilled by the blast, when there is divine shelter? More beautiful than any flower I ever saw are the hues of a bird's plumage. Did you ever examine it; the blackbird, floating like a flake of carkness through the sunlight; the meadow lark, with head of fawn and throat of velvet and breast of gold, the red flamingo flying over the southern swamps like sparks from the forge of the setting sun; the pelican white and black—morning and night tangled in its wings—give but a very faint idea of the beauty that comes down over the soul when on it drop the feathers of the Almighty. Here beauty that comes down over the soul when on it drop the feathers of the Almighty. Here fold your weary wings. This is the only safe in the uttermost parts of the sea, even there Thy hand shall hold me."

God forbid that in this matter of eternal weal or woe we should be more stupid than the fowls of heaven: "for the stork knoweth her appointed time; and the turtle, and the crane, and the swallow, observe the time of their going; but my people know not the judgment of the Lord."

To have become a skilled marksman under such a weighty disadvantage indicates grest patience and determination. William uses a very light English gun, having abandoned in despair the attempt to get any made to his own liking in Germany, and carries it on his shoulder with the stock behind him. At the proper moment he brings the weapon forward by a movement of his right arm with incredible swiftness and deadly accuracy of aim.

THEY WORSHIP THE CZAR.

An Aged Penant Illustrates the Common

Feeling in Russin. New York Sun.]

The following incident illustrates how the person of the Czar is idolized by the common peasant: An old peasant (Muzhitchok) came to the manager of the Pilgrim's Home in Taganrog recently with the request that he forward two church bells to Palestine, and hang them in the steeple of the Church of Elijah, the Prophet. The peasant is over 60 years of age, Antip Petroff Narutchkin by name, and hails from a village in the government of Penza. Mr. S. S. Tenaykovskiy, the manager of the Pilgrim's Home, made arrangements to forward the two bells to their place of destination, and had photographs taken of the donor and his horse and wagon.

FEATURES OF THE WEEK'S BUSINESS

OFFICE OF PITTSBURG DIPATCH, Saturday, September 13, 1890. Saturday, September 13, 1890.

There has been a sharp upward movement in grain the past few days. Short crops are being made the most of by bulls, more than the facts in the case warrant. The surplus of cereals carried over from last year's abundant yield, added to the yield of this year, will furnish bread enough and to spare, and there is no good ground for the fear of a shortage. With about 440,000,000 bushels of wheat and 1,700,000,000 ot corn in the land, which latest estimates give, there can be no scarcity.

Union, in its financial article, has the foliowing: "The reduction from the 188. production is already working to the advantage of every farmer in the country, by establishing prices fully 15 to 25 per cent in advance of the average figures of 1889. There is indeed no question that the product conditions of our staples are much than for years, due to several causes. The general agritation about the need of more protection to the farmer is, we apprehend, more political than real; our political situation, like the fashionable word, seems to take on new markable facility of late years, showing that political parties are on the alert for new issues, but are not very familiar with the facts that should fithlence their selection or rejection."

Activity in Greeries.

Jobbers here report active moveme: of groceries during the week. Sugar is 36, below prices of Monday. Green coffee has advanced in the East, but packages continue in the sand old rut. The new tariff bill, tog into effect. October 1, puts an addition of 24c per pound on raisins and 2c on pruces, and will increase cost on all foreign dried fruits. The effect is already felt in firmer views at sources of supply. The first of the new rice crop is to the front within the week bast, and, thoigh not in the least part of the week when anothers of the market, and quality and price are much more satisfactory than any time this season. The watermelous of protection in the same shown some decline from the previous week, with prices generally lower. Creamer butter is off Leent per pound. Grapes are the principal fruit new on the market, and quality and price are much more satisfactory than any time this season. The watermelous crop are made at the product of the week was damaging to large quantities of fruit that came to our markets. Application of the week was damaging to large quantities of fruit that came to our markets, and quality and price are much more satisfactory than any time this season. The watermelous core of the past day or two receipts have not been so sufficient amount of choice stock for a day or two past, and that prospects are for a light run next week.

The unseasonable warm weather in the early part of the week was damaging to large quantities of fruit that came to our markets. Apples were sold at nominal prices. Our best stock in this line is coming from Missouri, and prices of good fruit are firm with a tendency to a higher level. The duliness in the hide market since the beginning of the month still continues. The weakness is felt most in the light hide department, though all are duli. Boston tanners are holding off for still lower prices, notwithstanding the fact that there is already a decline of lc per pound from the highest point on light hides. The only feature developed during the week in live stock trade has been the sharp advance in hogs. In the past ten days corn-fed hogs have advanced about 50c per cwt., and in the same time hog products have been reduced in price. time hog products have been reduced in price

THE KAISER'S A DEAD SHOT.

Although Using but One Arm He Handles a Gau Like a Veteran.

What renders Emperor William's love for shooting the more remarkable is the fact that his left arm is practically paralyzed. He has trained himself to hold the rein with it when he rides, but that is the sum of its usefulness. The arm is four inches shorter than its fellow and has a malformed hand with only rudimentary tingers.

The arm is so wholly limp that William has to lift its hand to even place it on the hilt of his sword with his right hand. It is in this posture or else in the breast of his By Telegraph.

STOCKS HELD DOWN

the week were less than 1,000 shares. Figures were not far apart in most cases, but there was no disposition to take hold. The duliness cannot be wholly, or even largely, attributed to the mositary stringency, for it existed before, but it has intensified the apathy of investors, who would rather sell what they have than buy more. That values show a strong front under such adverse circumstances is greatly to the credit of Pittshure securities. is greatly to the credit of Pittsburg securities Closing quotations as compared with those is greatly to the credit of Pittsburg securities.

Money in this market was rather stringent during the week, with an easier feeling at the close, but at no time were regular customers discommoded or refused all the accommodations they required. The lines were tightened as a precaution against the unexpected, and not because of any particular scarcity of funds. Rates were steady all week at 807 per cent as the extremes. The Clearing House report was rosy as usual, showing an active trade movement. The week's exchanges were nearly $1,000,000 better than those of the previous week, and $5,000,000 in round numbers greater than for the corresponding time last year. If croakers can draw consolation from these figures they are welcome to it.
